

NO POOL-ROOMS OPEN

Supt. Byrne's Orders Are Strictly Observed To-Day.

Reeling Men Theorizing as to the Cause of Monday's Raids.

Delaney Says the Matter Will Be Fought to the Highest Court.

The determination announced by some of the leading pool-rooms that they would reopen their rooms for business this morning, in spite of Supt. Byrne's threats against them, was not carried out. Not a pool-room was open this forenoon. Doors were tightly closed and locked, and only repeated thumping on the panels would bring any one to answer questions. Invariably those who came to the doors professed ignorance. According to their own admissions, they "didn't know anything." Whether any of the rooms contemplated opening later in the day, could not be learned.

"It makes no difference whether you are doing business or not," said a ward detective to the proprietor of an upper pool-room yesterday. "We have orders to keep these places closed, and if any of the rooms are found open, our orders are to rip the place to pieces, and to make sure that no business will be done."

The proprietor referred to then drove out the sympathizing crowd of hangers-on, and locked his doors. For want of something else to do, he then turned to the gutter and the gutter to the gutter, and so did the other hundred and odd pool-room keepers.

An air of the most pronounced defiance was shown by the proprietors of the pool-rooms. Supt. Byrne's sudden descent on the pool-rooms yesterday, and the subsequent raid on the pool-rooms, was a surprise to many of the proprietors. They were not expecting such a move, and any quantity of conjectures are afloat giving reasons for the raid.

"Why," pertinently asks one pool-room man, "did Supt. Byrne allow the pool-rooms to be open yesterday? He has not allowed them to be open since Monday. The laws were just the same. If we have been violating the statutes, why were we not closed before?"

This query sets people to thinking and wondering what the real reasons were for the sudden raids. The theory generally accepted is that Supt. Byrne got his orders from a higher power than himself. In short, that some one in the city, of high rank and authority, had given him orders to raid the pool-rooms.

On the other hand, many of the pool-rooms are now open, and the proprietors are not expecting any further raids. They are confident that the raid on Monday was a mistake, and that the pool-rooms will be allowed to remain open.

At any rate, the Superintendent is apparently in a better mood than he was on Monday, and the pool-rooms are open.

At any rate, the Superintendent is apparently in a better mood than he was on Monday, and the pool-rooms are open.

At any rate, the Superintendent is apparently in a better mood than he was on Monday, and the pool-rooms are open.

At any rate, the Superintendent is apparently in a better mood than he was on Monday, and the pool-rooms are open.

At any rate, the Superintendent is apparently in a better mood than he was on Monday, and the pool-rooms are open.

At any rate, the Superintendent is apparently in a better mood than he was on Monday, and the pool-rooms are open.

At any rate, the Superintendent is apparently in a better mood than he was on Monday, and the pool-rooms are open.

At any rate, the Superintendent is apparently in a better mood than he was on Monday, and the pool-rooms are open.

At any rate, the Superintendent is apparently in a better mood than he was on Monday, and the pool-rooms are open.

At any rate, the Superintendent is apparently in a better mood than he was on Monday, and the pool-rooms are open.

At any rate, the Superintendent is apparently in a better mood than he was on Monday, and the pool-rooms are open.

At any rate, the Superintendent is apparently in a better mood than he was on Monday, and the pool-rooms are open.

At any rate, the Superintendent is apparently in a better mood than he was on Monday, and the pool-rooms are open.

At any rate, the Superintendent is apparently in a better mood than he was on Monday, and the pool-rooms are open.

At any rate, the Superintendent is apparently in a better mood than he was on Monday, and the pool-rooms are open.

At any rate, the Superintendent is apparently in a better mood than he was on Monday, and the pool-rooms are open.

At any rate, the Superintendent is apparently in a better mood than he was on Monday, and the pool-rooms are open.

At any rate, the Superintendent is apparently in a better mood than he was on Monday, and the pool-rooms are open.

WATCHMAN GREEN A THIEF.

Held in $5,000 Bail for Robbing the Manhattan Storage Co.

Park Commissioner Gray Identifies Much of the Stolen Wares.

Charles Green, aged twenty-four, of 26 Cornelia street, was held in $5,000 bail for examination by Justice Hogan in Jefferson Market Police Court this morning on a charge of stealing silverware and jewelry from the silver vault of the Manhattan Storage Warehouse Company, where he was temporarily employed as watchman.

Green has been employed by the Manhattan Storage Company for several months in various capacities. For several weeks he has been acting as watchman of the silver vaults, and ever since he came on duty the company has been missing valuable property.

At length, Thomas L. Weiss, the Vice-President of the Company, applied to Inspector McLaughlin, and Detective Cottrell and Donahue were put on the case.

They found much of the stolen property in the possession of Green, whom they arrested Monday night. Green was also identified by a half dozen pawnbrokers as the party who had visited their establishments and pledged valuable property.

Tickets were also found in his possession representing nearly $1,000 worth of jewelry and silverware.

Among the property recovered were several dozen watches, some of which were identified by Park Commissioner Gray and Nathan Alliman as being property in court today. Green confessed his guilt, and says that the pool-rooms profited by his wrongdoing.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

He was also found in his possession of a watch which he had stolen from a pawnbroker.

OREGON RANCHER MURDERED.

His Body Placed in a Stallion's Stall to Conceal the Crime.

The Hired Man and the Dead Man's Wife Placed Under Arrest.

PORTLAND, Ore., March 15.—A. W. Shaw, a wealthy rancher of Grant County, was recently found dead in a stall in which a stallion was tied. The man's skull was fractured, and it was supposed that he had been kicked to death.

The body was found by F. W. Galin, the hired man of the Shaw household. An inquest was held, and upon the testimony of Galin and Mrs. Shaw a verdict of accidental death was rendered. Facts developed yesterday, however, which implicated Galin and Mrs. Shaw in the man's death, and both were arrested on a charge of murder.

At 10 o'clock this morning when Galin immediately took Shaw's place in the household. The blood-stained floor of the stall, which had been covered with hay, proved conclusively that Shaw had been killed in another part of the barn and carried to the stall where the body was found.

It is believed that Galin murdered his employer at the instigation of Mrs. Shaw. The body was found by F. W. Galin, the hired man of the Shaw household. An inquest was held, and upon the testimony of Galin and Mrs. Shaw a verdict of accidental death was rendered.

Facts developed yesterday, however, which implicated Galin and Mrs. Shaw in the man's death, and both were arrested on a charge of murder.

At 10 o'clock this morning when Galin immediately took Shaw's place in the household. The blood-stained floor of the stall, which had been covered with hay, proved conclusively that Shaw had been killed in another part of the barn and carried to the stall where the body was found.

It is believed that Galin murdered his employer at the instigation of Mrs. Shaw. The body was found by F. W. Galin, the hired man of the Shaw household. An inquest was held, and upon the testimony of Galin and Mrs. Shaw a verdict of accidental death was rendered.

Facts developed yesterday, however, which implicated Galin and Mrs. Shaw in the man's death, and both were arrested on a charge of murder.

At 10 o'clock this morning when Galin immediately took Shaw's place in the household. The blood-stained floor of the stall, which had been covered with hay, proved conclusively that Shaw had been killed in another part of the barn and carried to the stall where the body was found.

It is believed that Galin murdered his employer at the instigation of Mrs. Shaw. The body was found by F. W. Galin, the hired man of the Shaw household. An inquest was held, and upon the testimony of Galin and Mrs. Shaw a verdict of accidental death was rendered.

Facts developed yesterday, however, which implicated Galin and Mrs. Shaw in the man's death, and both were arrested on a charge of murder.

At 10 o'clock this morning when Galin immediately took Shaw's place in the household. The blood-stained floor of the stall, which had been covered with hay, proved conclusively that Shaw had been killed in another part of the barn and carried to the stall where the body was found.

It is believed that Galin murdered his employer at the instigation of Mrs. Shaw. The body was found by F. W. Galin, the hired man of the Shaw household. An inquest was held, and upon the testimony of Galin and Mrs. Shaw a verdict of accidental death was rendered.

Facts developed yesterday, however, which implicated Galin and Mrs. Shaw in the man's death, and both were arrested on a charge of murder.

At 10 o'clock this morning when Galin immediately took Shaw's place in the household. The blood-stained floor of the stall, which had been covered with hay, proved conclusively that Shaw had been killed in another part of the barn and carried to the stall where the body was found.

It is believed that Galin murdered his employer at the instigation of Mrs. Shaw. The body was found by F. W. Galin, the hired man of the Shaw household. An inquest was held, and upon the testimony of Galin and Mrs. Shaw a verdict of accidental death was rendered.

Facts developed yesterday, however, which implicated Galin and Mrs. Shaw in the man's death, and both were arrested on a charge of murder.

At 10 o'clock this morning when Galin immediately took Shaw's place in the household. The blood-stained floor of the stall, which had been covered with hay, proved conclusively that Shaw had been killed in another part of the barn and carried to the stall where the body was found.

It is believed that Galin murdered his employer at the instigation of Mrs. Shaw. The body was found by F. W. Galin, the hired man of the Shaw household. An inquest was held, and upon the testimony of Galin and Mrs. Shaw a verdict of accidental death was rendered.

Facts developed yesterday, however, which implicated Galin and Mrs. Shaw in the man's death, and both were arrested on a charge of murder.

At 10 o'clock this morning when Galin immediately took Shaw's place in the household. The blood-stained floor of the stall, which had been covered with hay, proved conclusively that Shaw had been killed in another part of the barn and carried to the stall where the body was found.

It is believed that Galin murdered his employer at the instigation of Mrs. Shaw. The body was found by F. W. Galin, the hired man of the Shaw household. An inquest was held, and upon the testimony of Galin and Mrs. Shaw a verdict of accidental death was rendered.

Facts developed yesterday, however, which implicated Galin and Mrs. Shaw in the man's death, and both were arrested on a charge of murder.

At 10 o'clock this morning when Galin immediately took Shaw's place in the household. The blood-stained floor of the stall, which had been covered with hay, proved conclusively that Shaw had been killed in another part of the barn and carried to the stall where the body was found.

It is believed that Galin murdered his employer at the instigation of Mrs. Shaw. The body was found by F. W. Galin, the hired man of the Shaw household. An inquest was held, and upon the testimony of Galin and Mrs. Shaw a verdict of accidental death was rendered.

Facts developed yesterday, however, which implicated Galin and Mrs. Shaw in the man's death, and both were arrested on a charge of murder.

At 10 o'clock this morning when Galin immediately took Shaw's place in the household. The blood-stained floor of the stall, which had been covered with hay, proved conclusively that Shaw had been killed in another part of the barn and carried to the stall where the body was found.

It is believed that Galin murdered his employer at the instigation of Mrs. Shaw. The body was found by F. W. Galin, the hired man of the Shaw household. An inquest was held, and upon the testimony of Galin and Mrs. Shaw a verdict of accidental death was rendered.

Facts developed yesterday, however, which implicated Galin and Mrs. Shaw in the man's death, and both were arrested on a charge of murder.

At 10 o'clock this morning when Galin immediately took Shaw's place in the household. The blood-stained floor of the stall, which had been covered with hay, proved conclusively that Shaw had been killed in another part of the barn and carried to the stall where the body was found.

It is believed that Galin murdered his employer at the instigation of Mrs. Shaw. The body was found by F. W. Galin, the hired man of the Shaw household. An inquest was held, and upon the testimony of Galin and Mrs. Shaw a verdict of accidental death was rendered.

Facts developed yesterday, however, which implicated Galin and Mrs. Shaw in the man's death, and both were arrested on a charge of murder.

At 10 o'clock this morning when Galin immediately took Shaw's place in the household. The blood-stained floor of the stall, which had been covered with hay, proved conclusively that Shaw had been killed in another part of the barn and carried to the stall where the body was found.

It is believed that Galin murdered his employer at the instigation of Mrs. Shaw. The body was found by F. W. Galin, the hired man of the Shaw household. An inquest was held, and upon the testimony of Galin and Mrs. Shaw a verdict of accidental death was rendered.

Facts developed yesterday, however, which implicated Galin and Mrs. Shaw in the man's death, and both were arrested on a charge of murder.

At 10 o'clock this morning when Galin immediately took Shaw's place in the household. The blood-stained floor of the stall, which had been covered with hay, proved conclusively that Shaw had been killed in another part of the barn and carried to the stall where the body was found.

It is believed that Galin murdered his employer at the instigation of Mrs. Shaw. The body was found by F. W. Galin, the hired man of the Shaw household. An inquest was held, and upon the testimony of Galin and Mrs. Shaw a verdict of accidental death was rendered.

TRIED TO COERCE HIS FATHER.

Tony Dobiasch and Joseph Hoenig Argue with Revolvers.

Boy's Effort to Avoid Learning a Trade a Dismal Failure.

Joseph Dobiasch, a hard-working mechanic, at 125 Avenue A, has tried vainly to persuade his son Tony, who is sixteen to learn a trade.

When Tony learned that there was no escape from obedience to his parents' wishes, he wrote to his chum, Joe Hoenig, who was out in New Jersey working on a farm, and Joe came to New York.

The boys decided that the case demanded heroic treatment, and laid their plans accordingly. Tony stole some money from his father at night and the boys bought a pair of pocketknives, a fish-bulldog revolver, 32 calibre, and a box of cartridges.

At 10 o'clock this morning just as Joseph Dobiasch, his father, was getting out of bed, the outer door opened, and in rushed Tony and his chum. They were stern faces, and a dangerous light shone in their eyes. Tony walked straight up to the old man and said:

"Now, you just want to take back all you said about me learning a trade."

"I ain't going to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

"Ain't you got to learn none, see?"

KILLED HIS MEXICAN GUIDE.

Col. Gibson's True Aim Saved His Life in Texas.

His Attendant Fired from Ambush and Hit Him in the Face.

"Have you ever killed a man, Colonel?" The question was asked of Col. R. J. Gibson, an American by birth, and a native of Indianapolis, who had now been in Mexico, where he has been in the service of the Government as a military attaché, for the eighth year.

The Colonel was asked the question by a man in the country east of the Rio Grande, some of which are full of interest for those unused to the ways of the "gringo."

He seemed staggered at the abruptness of the question, and he answered that his face changed from gray to grave in an instant. Leaning forward he knocked the ashes from his cigar, and then he spoke. "I killed a man once. The act was committed in self-defense, but I shall carry the recollection of it to my grave."

There was a pause and another cloud of smoke from the Colonel's long Havana. His manner indicated that his mind was busy with the question. He was silent for some time, and then he spoke. "I killed a man once. The act was committed in self-defense, but I shall carry the recollection of it to my grave."

There was a pause and another cloud of smoke from the Colonel's long Havana. His manner indicated that his mind was busy with the question. He was silent for some time, and then he spoke. "I killed a man once. The act was committed in self-defense, but I shall carry the recollection of it to my grave."

There was a pause and another cloud of smoke from the Colonel's long Havana. His manner indicated that his mind was busy with the question. He was silent for some time, and then he spoke. "I killed a man once. The act was committed in self-defense, but I shall carry the recollection of it to my grave."

There was a pause and another cloud of smoke from the Colonel's long Havana. His manner indicated that his mind was busy with the question. He was silent for some time, and then he spoke. "I killed a man once. The act was committed in self-defense, but I shall carry the recollection of it to my grave."

There was a pause and another cloud of smoke from the Colonel's long Havana. His manner indicated that his mind was busy with the question. He was silent for some time, and then he spoke. "I killed a man once. The act was committed in self-defense, but I shall carry the recollection of it to my grave."

There was a pause and another cloud of smoke from the Colonel's long Havana. His manner indicated that his mind was busy with the question. He was silent for some time, and then he spoke. "I killed a man once. The act was committed in self-defense, but I shall carry the recollection of it to my grave."

There was a pause and another cloud of smoke from the Colonel's long Havana. His manner indicated that his mind was busy with the question. He was silent for some time, and then he spoke. "I killed a man once. The act was committed in self-defense, but I shall carry the recollection of it to my grave."

There was a pause and another cloud of smoke from the Colonel's long Havana. His manner indicated that his mind was busy with the question. He was silent for some time, and then he spoke. "I killed a man once. The act was committed in self-defense, but I shall carry the recollection of it to my grave."

There was a pause and another cloud of smoke from the Colonel's long Havana. His manner indicated that his mind was busy with the question. He was silent for some time, and then he spoke. "I killed a man once. The act was committed in self-defense, but I shall carry the recollection of it to my grave."

There was a pause and another cloud of smoke from the Colonel's long Havana. His manner indicated that his mind was busy with the question. He was silent for some time, and then he spoke. "I killed a man once. The act was committed in self-defense, but I shall carry the recollection of it to my grave."

There was a pause and another cloud of smoke from the Colonel's long Havana. His manner indicated that his mind was busy with the question. He was silent for some time, and then he spoke. "I killed a man once. The act was committed in self-defense, but I shall carry the recollection of it to my grave."

There was a pause and another cloud of smoke from the Colonel's long Havana. His manner indicated that his mind was busy with the question. He was silent for some time, and then he spoke. "I killed a man once. The act was committed in self-defense, but I shall carry the recollection of it to my grave."

There was a pause and another cloud of smoke from the Colonel's long Havana. His manner indicated that his mind was busy with the question. He was silent for some time, and then he spoke. "I killed a man once. The act was committed in self-defense, but I shall carry the recollection of it to my grave."

There was a pause and another cloud of smoke from the Colonel's long Havana. His manner indicated that his mind was busy with the question. He was silent for some time, and then he spoke. "I killed a man once. The act was committed in self-defense, but I shall carry the recollection of it to my grave."

There was a pause and another cloud of smoke from the Colonel's long Havana. His manner indicated that his mind was busy with the question. He was silent for some time, and then he spoke. "I killed a man once. The act was committed in self-defense, but I shall carry the recollection of it to my grave."

There was a pause and another cloud of smoke from the Colonel's long Havana. His manner indicated that his mind was busy with the question. He was silent for some time, and then he spoke. "I killed a man once. The act was committed in self-defense, but I shall carry the recollection of it to my grave."

There was a pause and another cloud of smoke from the Colonel's long Havana. His manner indicated that his mind was busy with the question. He was silent for some time, and then he spoke. "I killed a man once. The act was committed in self-defense, but I shall carry the recollection of it to my grave."

There was a pause and another cloud of smoke from the Colonel's long Havana. His manner indicated that his mind was busy with the question. He was silent for some time, and then he spoke. "I killed a man once. The act was committed in self-defense, but I shall carry the recollection of it to my grave."

There was a pause and another cloud of smoke from the Colonel's long Havana. His manner indicated that his mind was busy with the question. He was silent for some time, and then he spoke. "I killed a man once. The act was committed in self-defense, but I shall carry the recollection of it to my grave."